"You can taste that everything is made fresh" at this "small" South Suburban Northern Italian favorite that "feels like a trattoria in Italy" thanks to "outstanding food" and "friendly service"; in fact, the only liability, locals lament, is that since Lansing is largely "devoid of good restaurants" (and this one doesn't take reservations) there are often "long lines"; P.S. it's "especially fun to visit in the summer when the patio is open."
